Art Unit: 1652

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-21, 24-35, drawn to nucleic acids encoding a promoter regulated by a metabolite operably linked to a sequence encoding a heterologous polypeptide, and host cells and kits comprising said nucleic acids, classified in class 435, subclass 6.
- II. Claim 22, drawn to methods of producing isoprenoids, classified in class 435, subclass 166.
- III. Claim 23, drawn to methods of producing lycopene, classified in class 435, subclass 167.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

The nucleic acids of Group I are unrelated to the method of Groups II and III as they are neither used nor made by the methods of Groups II and III.

The methods of Groups II and III are independent as they comprise different steps, utilize different products and produce different results.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Claims of Group I (1-22 and 24-35) are generic to a plurality of disclosed patentably distinct species comprising different promoters and different heterologous polypeptide genes. Each promoter and heterologous gene is structurally distinct and capable of separate manufacture, use and effect. Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single promoter and a single heterologous polypeptide gene species, even though this requirement is traversed.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Rebecca Prouty, Ph.D. whose telephone number is (703) 308-4000. The
